trial in the case of Dr. John W. Hughes has not yet been reached. It is hoped that busias will be so far disposed of that the arument of that motion can be made at nine clock this morning, in court-room No. before Judge Coffinberry. It will be the first business taken up. The motion is frawn up in the usual form, but, we understand, the main point, that on which the tress will be laid, is certain alleged statements made by one of the jurors in this case, as to pre-formed judgment of guilt on the part of defendant. The motion will in all human probability be overruled.

Assatonment or Princes, &c .- The noteus " Chicken," now Bull of Bashan, alic Nathan Smith, indicted for grand larceny, was arraigned before Judge Coffinberry yes terday morning, when he entered the plea of not guilty. George Robinson, colored, was arraigned on a similar indictment, and made the same plea. Now, is it not a little singular that the ourt and jury should take for granted that these men are liars! They immediately set saide, as unworthy of eredence or even consideration, the plendings of these arraigned parties, and addressed themselves to detering their innocence or guilt. After a short trial in the case of " Chicken," who was charged with the stealing of a cow from James Jourdan, in Brooklyn, the jury retired and quickly returned with the verlict of guilty, estimating the value of the property stolen at $50. "Chicken" heard the verdict without flinshing, but his expressive physiognomy was a study for an artist. His face is broad, black and corru gated, and what are lines in most men's aces seem whip-cords running from his postrils and coiling around his mouth. He has a very "open countenance his mouth being no less than five inches long, and his lips resembling large rolls of sole leather. He looked straight shead ou of his eyes, like those Greeks whose sockets are said to have been so set that they could see only in a direct line, and whenever they would change the axis of vision, must need urn the whole head. Not that "Chicken' is much of a Greek. He suggests the Indian chief who, in the celebrated "Seminole" Reply," is quoted as snying, among other ings, "The pale face I defy." He looked ust as if he could make two mouthsful o judge, prosecutor and jury. They had better keep clear of his terrible incisors and

"Chicken" was remanded to jail, to await entence to the penitentiary, where he has been once before.

The case of George Robinson was then called, and Mr. Elwell assigned his counsel. A. T. Slade, Esq., is prosecuting with energy and ability all the cases in court room No. 3
